

RE: PORTABILITY OF MY CELL PHONE NUMBER. If I can have my own telephone number in my home for 30 yrs., why does a cell phone company control my cell number. With it printed on business cards and known by relatives and friends...there is no reason these companies should have the monopoly...too afraid of competition, nuts. It is time for FCC regulators to stand up for the consumer...the technology is there and we all want and need that portability. Nearly all other technically advanced countries have portability. The cell phone companies would have to work to keep their customers and offer incentives and be competitive. Take over FCC and controlling government agencies and start looking out for us..the consumer.
